Dear Sir:

The United States Navy Human Resource Management Center has an on-going program in inter-cultural relations. The key elements of the program are: (1) personnel to function as a positive representative of the Navy and the United States while overseas; (2) increased job effectiveness; and (3) increased overseas assignment satisfaction.

The program encompasses many facets in preparing U. S. Navy personnel to visit, live and work overseas. Included in the cross-cultural training program are: language training, general and specific area orientation information, local customs and traditions and gestures unique to the culture, etc. Lack of cross-cultural know-how is a critical factor.

If you have any ideas, resources, or suggestions which you think may be effective in helping us achieve these goals, we would greatly appreciate your contribution.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

S. A. FINK
Commander, USN
Training Officer
